

Being the grown-up, the one habit of highly effective leadership

Divert levels of expertise

Can we have a design internship (question for leadership?)

Challenge the growing up

Being a grown-up means you need to deal with difficult stuff doing things that I'm not going to get you're not going to get the credit necessarily.

When I found a challenge, what a grown-up would do?

Do you have a minute? Is the most terrifying question that you can get by your manager?

New power dynamic power dynamic is different when you become a leader

When you have the question, do you have a minute? Give some reassurance if there is nothing to worry about.

you need to design conversations for intended outcomes.

Work on timeline

Difficult conversation need to happen upon not on a Monday when you've been asked to have it on a Friday and that you employee be worried for the whole weekend

Be transparent

Start with the fact that it's going to be a difficult conversation if it's the case

Becoming an accidental leader of organisational change

If you want people to see your design put next to the toilet put them next to the toilet.

Your design process to everyone

Feature request by important

Focus on the outcome, not just the emotion.

Practice practice practice active listening and empathy.

Communication clearly and respectfully

Take responsibility.

Be proactive, not reactive.

Be accountable.

Book recommendation: how to do it design right?

leadership beyond titles

Leadership is about empowering orders and fostering growth

True leadership means taking responsibility for all action in an eagle way.

Leadership is inferencing positively and serving a larger purpose.

Micromanaging is not leader leadership.

Rock equal foundation

Three equal where are you growing?

Heart equal what you like

Star Equal what do you do better than anyone?
